great teachers. Sir explained that in order to be a great teachers, they have to first love their students, they need to be empathetic with the students and understand the emotional state of the students. Sir also explained that the today's youth have to be handled carefully and sympathetically. He said that the generation is very sensitive and have their own fear of failure, non-acceptance etc, thus the students have to be first understood well. He emphasized the importance of building a rapport with the students and the necessity of developing a mentor attitude. He then congratulated all the teachers for consistent hard work and efforts which they put daily. The session ended with sir answering the questions which were posed to him by the audience
