graduate. Sir was able to motivate the young and budding managers to the world of management education. He made them understand that they need to change the approach towards everything. He also made them aware of the challenges that exist in actual functioning of the corporate. The session was highly interactive where the students had numerous doubts regarding the expectations of the corporate world from them. Sir ended the session by making the students realize the business and economic scenario and how the MBA program will help the student bridge the gap between the corporate expectations and reality.

Sir also highlighted the prime expectations which the corporates have from a management graduate student. Sir enriched the students with some tips with which the transition could be easy. He emphasized on the fact that transition cannot take place in a day and the students need to develop a discipline at the college level itself.

He also spoke about that the main aim of university education today is molding and furnishing students to be ready to face the challenges and responsibilities in their future. This therefore requires the education to be value based with the ability to synthesize the morals of the student individually. Sir emphasized on how it is the responsibility of education system to give high quality education which meets the international standards this is with regard to the global demands, technology and scenario on the inception of skills on the input side and the fast changing products and services on the output side.

Dear Sir,

Greetings from GBSRC!

Global Business School & Research Centre, of Dr. D.Y. Patil, Pune is known for its focus on real world skills and excellence in management education. GBSRC stands for excellence in all its myriad dimensions. You can witness this in the magnificent infrastructure, experience it in the warmth of the people with whom you interact and feel it in the serenity of the campus as you walk-in.

Every year we welcome our fresh batch of students through an Annual Induction Program for MBA. Through this program we endeavor to orient the aspiring managers to the world of management education as well as the challenges that exist in actual functioning of the Corporate. The schedule of the Induction Program is structured accordingly on issues relevant to the business and economic scenario, to be addressed by a unique blend of corporate decision makers and members of the academia.

It would be our great pleasure if you please accept our invitation for "Distinguished GuestSpeaker" for the event and deliver a talk to the aspiring managers.
